GENERAL STRIKE IS THREAT AT DETROIT; POLICE KEPT ACTIVE

Ultimatum Given in City Where 100,000 Persons Are Now Idle

"SITUATION IS GRAVE"

Protest is Made Over the Arrest of "Sit-Down" Strikers

By James L. Kilgallen
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

DETROIT, Mar. 22 — (INS)—"Stop sit-down raids or face a general automobile strike in Detroit."

This ultimatum, from the union to police department and Mayor Frank Couzens, precipitated a new crisis today in this strike-torn city where 100,000 persons are idle, including 60,000 employes of the eight Chrysler plants.

Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers Union, warned that the general strike will be called at a moment's notice if the police do not immediately stop raiding smaller plants, factories and stores and evicting and arresting "sit downers."

For the past several days the police have been raiding the smaller places although no attempt has been made to evict or arrest any of the 70,000 strikers who have been holding the Chrysler plants since March 8.

In the words of Martin, who now demands a show-down with the police, "the situation is grave." He sent a telegram to all local union leaders telling them to appoint special strike committees as a "general strike may be necessary."

"We are demanding that (Mayor) Couzens and (Police Superintendent) Pickert immediately cease raiding and slugging and blackjacking strikers and innocent bystanders," Martin said in his telegram.

In spite of Martin's warning the police were said to be planning more raids. Their latest raids were staged Saturday when they crashed into a packing company and cigar factory and made wholesale arrests of "sit-downers."

While the situation seemed to be critical, Governor Frank Murphy, who has been striving to bring about peace for days, injected an optimistic note during a Palm Sunday speech in which he said:

"Your Governor believes there will be industrial peace in Michigan."

He admitted, however, that at the present moment the strike situation is threatening the peace of the nation."

Mayor Frank Couzens today assumed full responsibility for the raids. He declared he learned that some of the smaller "sit-down" strikes were engineered by racketeer and gangster elements and that he went to the Governor and obtained his approval to make the raids.

Martin countered by asserting the union does not condone or countenance any racketeering within its ranks. He maintained that the action of the police in making the raids is an attack on "the right of strike."

Tension was great this morning as the public awaited what would happen when, and if, police superintendent Pickert goes ahead with his announced intention of making other raids.

A general automobile strike, if it developed, would not re-close the huge General Motor factories, recently opened after a 44-day sit-down strike. Wyndham Mortimer, vice-president of the United Auto Workers, said General Motors employes would not be called out but that they would take part in any union demonstration.

Musicians, Comedians, In "Champagne Waltz"

One of the finest casts of musicians, comedians, dancers and singers ever assembled for a motion picture makes its appearance in "Champagne Waltz," the gay comedy with music which begins tonight at the Grand Theatre.

Fred MacMurray and Gladys Swarthout, who are co-starred, not only supply the romantic interest, but also exhibit the talents which have made them famous as musicians. In "Champagne Waltz," MacMurray as the leader of a swing band which takes Vienna by storm, toots his saxophone again in real swing fashion. He also sings "When Is a Kiss Not a Kiss" to Miss Swarthout. The famous Metropolitan Opera diva contributes two outstanding vocal selections. The first is the new swing-waltz hit "The Merry-Go-Round," and the second "Could I Be In Love?"

Irrepressible Jack Oakie is responsible for most of the comedy as the press agent of MacMurray's band, and more laughter is provided by Herman Bing, Ernest Cossart, Benny Baker and others. Frank Forest, the new screen "find," also provides some vocal music. Veloz and Yolanda, world-famed ballroom dance team, supply several solos.

QUAKERTOWN BOY SPELLS "PUISSANT;" WINS MATCH

TUCKERTON IS SECOND

Pennsylvania and New Jersey high school students split the honors in the eleventh annual Peirce School interscholastic spelling contest held Saturday in the school auditorium in Philadelphia before a vast crowd.

Quakertown High School successfully defended the team championship won last year when Meyer Hunsberger, the veteran spelling bee contestant, correctly spelled "puissant" to win top honors from Tuckerton, N. J., High School. The winning team was composed of Moyer Hunsberger, Elaine Henckeroth, June Landis, Dorothy Clymer and DeArmond Lindes.

The battle for the individual award was a keen struggle. When the remaining contestants had dwindled down to a scant four, two of them were sisters, Anna and Sara Johnson, of Tuckerton, N. J., High School. Anna was the 1936 champion, defending her title. Her sister, Sara, had designs on the title and when the word "garote" came along to befuddle sister Anna, she promptly stepped into the breach and dethroned her sister to clinch top 1937 honors.

The runner-up team awards were won by Tuckerton, N. J., High School, whose spellers pressed Quakertown to the very limit. The second-place team was composed of John Pettibone, Elsie Engelder, Anna Johnson, Sara Johnson and Eleanor Reynolds.

A written qualifying test was first given the 24 competing schools and 120 individuals. The ten highest scoring teams and the forty highest scoring individuals then competed in an oral contest to decide the championships. Thirteen persons scored 100% in the qualifying test. They were Elsie Engelder, Anna and Sara Johnson and Eleanor Reynolds, all of Tuckerton team; Moyer Hunsberger, Elaine Henckeroth and June Landis, all of the champion Quakertown five; John Dautrich and James Peck, of Toms River; and Helen Berger, of Hatfield; Angeline Johnson, of Langhorne-Middletown, Berth A. Sweigart, of Robesonia, and Dorothy Brosz, of Collegeville.

The ten qualifying teams which met in the oral contest for team honors finished in the following order: Quakertown, Tuckerton, N. J., Sellersville-Perkasie, Toms River, N. J., Barnegat, N. J., Doylestown, Hatfield, Northeast Catholic of Phila., Robesonia and Bristol.

The ten words which seemed to cause trouble in the qualifying test were: ramie, tulle, polonaise, mannequin, fusibility, winze, schist, rococo, tussah and campanile.

Professor John A. Luman, dean of the Peirce School and director of the contest, again acted as pronouncer. A luncheon was served all contestants, officials, and other guests at noon while the returns from the qualifying test were being made up.

The judges were: Horace Wells, Walter E. Dengler and Leland D. Clements, all of the Peirce School faculty.

The complete list of competing schools is as follows: Barnegat, N. J., Bensalem, Bristol, Buckingham, Collegeville, Doylestown, Falls Township of Fallsington, Glen Nor of Glenolden, Hatboro, Hatfield, Langhorne-Middletown High School, Morrisville, Newtown, Northeast Catholic High School, of Philadelphia, North Wales, Phoenixville, Quakertown, Ridley Park, Robesonia, Sellersville-Perkasie, Sharon Hill, Springfield Township of Pleasant Valley, Toms River, N. J., and Tuckerton, N. J., High Schools.

Strikes at Another Sector

Madrid, Mar. 22—His Italian rebel army routed on the Guadalajara front, insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco today reverted to his famous sidetrack by striking at another sector.

The new rebel offensive was launched on the Garama River district, southeast of Madrid, in a fresh attempt to cut the Madrid-Valencia highway. Heavy fighting in the neighborhood of Arganda was reported by the Seville radio.

Pressing hot after the fleeing rebels, the Loyalist army today established its contact with the Fascist forces since the debacle began ten days ago under terrific Loyalist aerial and artillery bombardment.

NEW STANDINGS OF BABIES IN RACE FOR HUGE CUP WILL APPEAR TOMORROW

March, ending her career next week, was perhaps the most interesting month in the recent history of the community and gives way only to make it possible for April to have the distinction of being remembered for years to come as the month in which the COMMUNITY'S FAVORITE BABY was elected by popular vote of the people and crowned literally with a "Shower of Cash" and attendant honors.

What could be finer and more appropriate than that this day should mark the biggest day of the election?

The youngsters that fill the home with sunshine and happiness are, after all, the dearest things in life and rightly so. Since the announcement that a plan was launched by which the favorite of all the Community's babies is to be elected, interest in the project has mounted. The reason for this probably, is the reaction that has come about through reflection on the place the child has in the home, a place that cannot be filled and one that should be glorified whatever the effort.

The "Shower of Cash" that will flood the community through the medium of the baby election has never wanted for interest. In fact, as the time draws nearer for the conferring of honors, there is a keener activity on the part of everyone, and speculation is rife as to the identity of the prospective winners.

But, there is much to be done between now and April 24th. The last few weeks of the election are weeks in which the race may be definitely won or lost as scores of those babies entered are very much in the running. Positions are changing each day and no one can tell even what the results will be when the next list is published tomorrow. Pictures appearing are getting a response that is gratifying to those who are working for the individual success of the little campaigners. From that source has come many votes. Other pictures will appear from time to time, but it will be difficult to publish the pictures of every baby entered in the election.

But the babies who are being backed and who are still in the running are certain to have their pictures presented to the public. As many of the other little ones as possible will also be given a place in the paper's columns.

Go out today and see how many new votes you can get for the baby YOU think is really deserving of the crown.

Another vote count has been completed, and the results will be published in Tuesday's (tomorrow's) paper, with many changes in the list. The Honor Roll will also appear in tomorrow's paper, showing the 20 leading babies. The parents whose babies names do not appear on the Honor Roll this week, should make a special effort in getting merchant coupons and a few subscriptions to The Bristol Daily Courier, in order to help their babies get on the Honor Roll.

AFTER BABY HONORS

FRANK AITA

Frank looks out at you with trusting and understanding dark eyes and without guile, asks you one question, "Will you vote for me?" Forgetting for the moment that there are other splendid candidates for Favorite Baby honors, there's no denying that here's a boy to bring you joy and satisfaction in the thought that your vote has not been misplaced. Campaigning is his watchword from now on and until the last vote is in and registered and it is a foregone conclusion that he will have his full share of followers. He is the two-and-half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Aita, 210 Penn street, Bristol. Mr. Aita is a well-known local merchant. FIREMEN SAVE BOY FROM DROWNING IN CREEK

Morrisville "Smoke-Eaters" Summoned to Aid Youth After Fall Into Creek

RIDES HOME ON TRUCK

MORRISVILLE, Mar. 22—Firemen were called upon yesterday to rescue a 10-year old boy from drowning in a creek just off the Lincoln Highway, near Delmorr avenue. The lad, Edward Breihler, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Breihler, 29 Park avenue, fell into the creek from a 20-foot bank along the road above. The creek is just off the Lincoln Highway.

Together with a brother, George, 8, and a friend, Chester Caffey, 11, also of Morrisville, the three were throwing rocks at passing bottles in the creek when Breihler slipped from the embankment and fell headlong into the water.

A swift current carried him downstream, and he floundered around considerably before he was able to get his bearings and attempt to swim through the tunnel under the Lincoln Highway to shallow water.

Sensing the plight of Breihler, Caffey ran across the highway and along the creek off Delmorr avenue, a distance of 200 feet, stripped off his clothes and waded out in an attempt to lend Breihler a hand. He managed to grasp the hand of his companion but was unable to drag him to the shore.

Stricken by the sight of his brother, George ran home and notified his parents. However, before they arrived at the scene, the Union Fire Company, of Morrisville, summoned by an unknown passerby, arrived. Fireman David LaBauer was dispatched to aid the struggling pair and managed their rescue.

Both boys were taken home in the fire truck and immediately put to bed, suffering only from fright.

SPEAKER TELLS "GRADS" FARMING DOES PAY

Every Student Graduating At Farm School Will Go To A Position

CAME FROM NINE STATES

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 22 — Thirteen Philadelphians were among the forty graduates of National Farm School who received diplomas yesterday at the thirty-seventh annual commencement exercises held in Louchheim Auditorium on the school campus near here. The Philadelphians participated in a number of the fine prize awards.

Graduates of the 1937 class came from nine states. They were addressed by Judge Calvin S. Boyer, of the Bucks county courts.

In his annual message to the graduating class and the 1500 people who attended this event, Herbert D. Allman, well-known Philadelphia philanthropist and president of the school, announced that every student is leaving the school not only with a diploma but with a good position. The demand for Farm School graduates increases every year and is due in part to the gerat number of city folks buying farms and wanting expert help.

"The habitual cry that farming does not pay is a fallacious one-sided theory," declared President Allman.

Plan King's Protection

London, Mar. 22 — Scotland Yard's famous "special branch" in liaison with the central police agency of Europe and America, today worked on intricate measures to forestall any "incident" at the coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth. This was learned in spite of a vigorous denial by the "Yard" of a story in the Sunday Referee that police had "discovered a Coronation Day plot against the King's life."

While King George has no enemies it was pointed out there is always the danger that some "crank" might create trouble if only for the purpose of drawing attention to himself or "some cause." How E. A. McMahon shied a revolver at King Edward VIII last July as the King was returning from the trooping of the colors, was recalled. McMahon wanted "justice" for some injury.

Restore Order Where 12 Were Killed

San Juan, Porto Rico, Mar. 22—With 76 persons under arrest and scores of armed police patrolling the streets, order was restored today in the city of Ponce, where 12 persons were killed in a Nationalist outbreak.

Among the dead were a five year old child and two women spectators who were in the line of fire when the Nationalists' party so called "liberty army" battled police attempting to halt a parade staged as an anti-American demonstration." More than 100 persons were wounded in the wild outbreak of pistol and machine gun fire. Hospital authorities said some of them would die.

The populace was bitterly critical of police for opening fire, but authorities maintained stern measures were necessitated by refusal of paraders to halt when ordered to do so. Two policemen were among those killed.

DINNER AT GREENCREST

The final invitation hunt of the season was conducted yesterday afternoon by the Bristol Riding Club, the guests being members of the West Chester Hunt Club. This reciprocal hunt followed an invitation affair for the Bristol riders at West Chester the previous Saturday.

The colorful affair was participated in by approximately 30 riders, and the prescribed course of 20 to 25 miles was ridden without mishap. The course, starting at Newportville bridge led through Bensalem Township, with jumps over approximately 30 fences.

A number of those interested in the hunt followed in automobiles, and were enabled to watch the progress of the affair from vantage points along the thoroughfares.

Returning at five o'clock, after two and one-half hours of hard riding, the group was entertained at a turkey dinner at "Greencrest," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Green, North Radcliffe street. Covers were placed for 60 guests. Music added to the pleasant affair.

SANE BUT SCARED

Indians of the South American hinterlands are "psychologically better than civilized people," J. G. LeVan, American psychologist and explorer, reported on returning to Georgetown, British Guiana, after a long, lone trek through grassy savannas. LeVan said he found no traces of neurosis and no recollections of a case of insanity in the last 85 years in the 300 villages which he visited in a 3,000-mile trip.

The simple life, far from the complexities and perils of civilization apparently makes for good mental health among the South American Indians. But there are certain other aspects of that simple life, one of which led to LeVan's long wanderings through the trackless savannas, during which he lost 30 pounds. Thoroughly exhausted when he reached Georgetown, the psychologist-explorer explained that he had dug up skeletons of warriors slain 300 years ago in battle. His native porters immediately concluded that he was an evil spirit and fled, leaving him to find his way alone to civilization. LeVan let his horse pick its way to a small village where he was cared for before resuming the trek to Georgetown.

Those Indian porters were perfectly sane and free of neurosis. But that didn't keep them from taking to their heels in terror of evil spirits. Mr. LeVan's horse had one advantage over the natives. It was bothered neither by neuroses, psychoses nor evil spirits. So it showed its master the way to go home.

SCIENCE IMPROVES WATER

Now science has turned against the old-fashioned rainwater barrel and the "soft" water cistern.

Like the open well with its old oaken bucket they are on the way out, and the manufacture of mechanical water softeners is well on the way toward becoming a major industry. Installations have risen from practically nothing two decades ago to more than 20,000 units last year.

Chemists have found that most of the supposed advantages of the rainwater barrel and the cistern were only illusions. Tests of hundreds of samples of water from them showed 5 to 15 grains of hardness—amount of calcium and magnesium per gallon. In addition there were numerous forms of bacteria and decayed organic matter collected from roofs and drain pipes and blown in by the wind.

"Most cisterns are lined with concrete or brick containing the same elements as the rocks in the soil which give ordinary water its hardness," said a spokesman for the industry. "Few cisterns are so tight that hard water from the surrounding soil does not seep in to add the undesirable 'lime,' and as a result cistern water in many hard water areas is harder than any known to residents of such soft water regions as New England."

Water softener manufacturers look for an even greater spurt in their business with the rise of the building industry, since the average home unit can be installed for much less than a cistern can be constructed.

The Braddock-Louis buildup is on. An optimistic Chicago sports headline calls it a "brawl."

The trailer home will surely complicate the return of the Prodigal Son; but then he may have a motorcycle.

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol, Sept. 16, 1875. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

On last Saturday 25 tramps were hanging about the depot. The Fall campaign of these pests to the community is now fairly inaugurated. Can there be nothing done to protect our people from the forced alms they are so frequently compelled to bestow upon the evidently unworthy who infest the streets and highways?

The new day and family school opened yesterday at the old Breck Mansion above the Farmers' National Bank. The building has been put in thorough repair inside, and the outside is now being painted and otherwise improved. Miss Merriam has secured as assistant teachers Miss Annie Earle, of Philadelphia; and Miss Julia Wright, of Cambridge, N. Y. About 20 scholars were in attendance yesterday. . . .

The increase of business of the enterprising firm of E. L. Banes & Brother, proprietors of the new machine shop on Dorrance street, has compelled them to put another lathe in their establishment. We are glad to note all evidences of the prosperity of the manufacturing interests in the borough.

The new school house near Cold Spring station is rapidly approaching completion. It will be a great improvement on the one destroyed by fire from a locomotive last Winter. The lot on which the old house stood was purchased by the railroad company for $1200.

NEWPORTVILLE — The Rev. Mr. Windsor, of Roxborough, has removed to Eddington and taken charge of the Episcopal church of that place.

The school directors of Bensalem will shortly commence the erection of a school house in the village of Flushing.

The counting room of the Farmers National Bank is to be frescoed. James Lyndall will apply the colors with his accustomed skill.

Bristol has the benefit of the new fast mail line. The New York mail now arrives at 6.27 a. m., and the mail from the West at 8.33 a. m.

Andrew Martin, a resident of Bristol, while working in a gravel pit near Morrisville, last Saturday, had his leg broken in two places by the gravel caving in and falling upon him.

A special meeting of borough council will be held this evening, to approve the constable's securities and turn over the uncollected portion of the duplicate into his hands for collection. The balance of taxes remaining unpaid is $2,696.90.

The Friends School commenced last Thursday in their new building on Cedar street. The room is furnished with double desks of the most approved pattern, and maps and engravings relieve the walls. The room is handsomely grained and various conveniences for the accommodation of books and outer garments are provided. The school opens with 35 scholars. Miss Lizzie Woolston and Miss Kate Laing are the instructors.

The board of finance of the Centennial has leased the Thomas Williams 45 acres of the farm he purchased of Dr. Schenck's estate, for the purpose of exhibiting reaping and threshing machines. The present corn crop is being removed in order that preparations for seeding the ground can be proceeded with immediately. After the trial of reapers, a portion of the ground will be used for the purpose of trying tillage machinery. The matter is under the immediate supervision of Mr. Burnett Landreth, chairman of the Bureau of Agriculture, whose energy and experience is a sure guarantee that the matter will be thoroughly attended to. As the citizens of Bucks County will have a part of the Centennial Exhibition on their own soil, they should now come forward and subscribe liberally to the stock.

HULMEVILLE—A petition by the taxpayers of the borough of Hulmeville has been very generally signed, asking the court to extend the limits of the borough Northward, toward the station at Langhorne's, and also to amend the charter so as to abolish the system known as cumulative voting. This experiment has been tried, and has failed thus far to work practically. It is supposed the court will act upon the matter during the present term.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Beechwood Cemetery Company, held on Friday last, the following officers were chosen: Jesse G. Webster, president; E. G. Harrison, secretary; John Johnson, treasurer. Jesse G. Webster was chosen superintendent of the grounds; Jesse G. Webster, John Johnson, Samuel H. Harrison, E. G. Harrison and Samuel Carman, managers. . . . The superintendent was directed to open two new sections of ground, in order to meet the increasing demand for lots.

Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD — The Ginger Rogers-Alfred Vanderbilt roller frome party was a scream. Guests were supposed to skate for only an hour and a half, after which the floor was to be cleared for dancing. But the celebs wouldn't quit and the 16-piece orchestra finally was obliged to play the grand march for 350 skaters. Libby Holman was more willing than skilled and dusted the floor so many times during the evening that her white costume was nearly black. Elizabeth Allan was a close runner-up in spills. Ice skater Jack Dunne, who used to be Sonja Henie's partner, didn't find the roller variety so easy—spent most of the first hour being held up by June Lang. Kay Francis, Boy Friend Delmer Daves and Simone Simon didn't even try, but had the time of their lives being hauled about the floor on kiddiecars. One result of the evening—the discovery that Anne Shirley bruises easily. Her legs look like they had been pounded with hammers.

Loretta Young and Eddie Sutherland have effected a reconciliation—at least they were at the Trocadero together the other night. Inferentially, she has just lambasted the gossips who made capital of her appearances with Tyrone Power. "Hollywood," she told an interviewer, "has a sewing circle complex."

The Helen Burgess annulment suit probably saved Buster Crabbe's life. Sounds crazy but it isn't. Due to Helen's date in court, Paramount had to rearrange the shooting schedule on "King of the Gamblers". This caused Buster Crabbe to say in town and work instead of going to his cabin at Thousand Pines.

That night a landslide roared down on the cabin, caved in the roof and tore off the front porch.

It'll cost the Crabbes $600 to repair the damage, but, at least, they are alive.

"Leisure to Repent"

CHAPTER XXIII

Felicia had no letter, no telephone message, nothing at all from Keith during the weeks of her convalescence. At first that did not trouble her, while she supposed he was convalescing too. But she began to be frantic when less than a week remained before her sailing date.

Two days before she sailed with her parents, she had moved to their house. Eustace had driven her that short distance in silence. She knew, and thought he knew, that there was no chance she would ever return to share any house with him, or anything at all any more. But they did not mention that. Only at the door of her father's house she said: "You're coming in, of course?"

Her husband said: "I think not."

Townes was taking her hand luggage out of the roadster. Her trunks had been sent over earlier. While Townes moved about, she fumbled for something to say.

On a June day something like this one, they'd left her father's house, in a shower of rice and felicitations, for their honeymoon four years ago. She hadn't loved him even then, but she had liked him. This was a dismal end to that gay beginning. But she could not say that.

Eustace got out of the roadster, opened the door beside her, and helped her out into the sunny quiet street. His face was more expressionless than that accident had made hers. He would not thank her for saying anything that might break him!

He said: "I sha'n't go to the boat, Felicia. There'll be reporters—and too many people generally."

"As you wish, Eustace."

"Have a nice summer, and give my best to Denise and Gilbert."

"A house on the Sussex downs sounds dull as possible, but I'll get a good rest and feel more like myself."

"That's the idea."

"Eustace—I'm—I'm sorry."

He ignored that as if she had not said it. "If you want me, Felicia, send for me. I can still manage passage money." His tone was of one mentioning the weather.

"Yes, Eustace."

"Good-by, then."

He got into his roadster, which was just beginning to get shabby; and when he'd have money for another, or how long he would have money for gasoline, she wondered! As she wondered, he put the car into gear and moved down the street. She thought that when he turned at the corner, he turned his head and waved to her. But he passed so quickly out of sight that she was not sure.

And next morning there was a letter from Keith, sent by messenger to her father's house. Fortunately, both her father and mother were out when it came. She locked herself into her bedroom to read it.

Felicia:

The long delay in writing you has been, as I suppose you guessed if you happened to see the newspapers, that my right arm was broken and I couldn't use the hand. What I have to say to you was not the sort of thing that could be dictated. I should have telephoned, but thought it would embarrass you, Eustace and whoever else might happen to be present.

Father has had me surrounded with nurses, masseurs, and so on constantly. I hear that you are fairly completely recovered. (Persuaded Father to find out.) That's good, darling. Myself shall limp, they say, but only slightly.

Do write me now, and tell me what you want me to do. Be assured that whatever you want, will make me happy. I can't of course estimate the situation at your end. It may be that you've changed your mind about me. I hope not!

Forgive the total inadequacy of this. It takes me so long to manage a few lines because of the stiffness of my hand, which will improve daily, they tell me, from now on.

Do write quickly as you can.

As ever—

But there seemed to be more than difficulty in managing a pen in the unaccountable coolness of that letter.

Her pride dictated her answer, a very brief answer to the effect that she was sailing as her parents wished, and if he wanted to join her, she would be glad to see him.

His response arrived on the morning of her sailing:

Felicia:

Don't write as if you thought I did not care what became of you. You know I do. But it hasn't seemed to me that I could telephone you at your father's house, or your husband's, in decency. I haven't been able to get out—though I shall next week.

Please don't go to England. It must be as obvious to you as to me that I can't visit you at Denise's house, either. If you will marry me, why not go straight to Reno? And (as I can't help knowing, because Eustace's people have gone on so), if you're hard up, let me pay the expenses.

Like the darling you are, (only not your letters), come to see me! I have a great deal more to tell you than I can write.

Only, she thought, not that he loved her much, else he would not have written that. She said to herself furiously: "So he's willing to make an honest woman of me. Well, he needn't." And in that brief anger, she sailed.

But the anger did not endure past New York harbor. She began to make excuses for those two letters.

She sent him a wireless: "PLEASE KEITH SAIL AS SOON AS YOU ARE ABLE TO JOIN ME STOP I HAD TO SAIL STOP WILL EXPLAIN WHEN I SEE YOU LOVE FELICIA."

He had to join her, to make her feel important and wanted, and that her looks were all right, really, that she just imagined they weren't. She was glad she had instructed the wireless operator to give her any message she might receive privately.

Keith's answer was comfortingly prompt: "GET DENISE TO INVITE ME, AND THEN THERE IS NO REASON NOT STOP WILL BE ABLE TO TRAVEL IN MONTH STOP WHAT A WILLFUL WOMAN YOU ARE STOP WHERE SHALL I ADDRESS LETTERS LOVE KEITH."

Well, she could get Denise to invite him, she supposed. She had usually been able to persuade Denise to do what she wanted. But on her arrival in England she was startled by her sister's attitude to her, having believed—because she wanted to—that Denise would long since have recovered from any resentment of the situation as it involved Keith. Still, Felicia was determined to have him join her. They would face the family, all at once, get it over with, and sail home.

Felicia was patient with difficulty through the days before Gilbert's departure. Better not try with Denise, while he was in her presence. Denise would ask his advice, and he would certainly refuse to have Keith as a guest.

Denise might not tell him, of course. There was clearly something strained in her relationship with him. But, it couldn't be chanced that Denise should tell. Wearily the possibilities went round and round in Felicia's head.

She could meet Keith in London, even if she failed with Denise. But, both Keith and herself knew too many people. The chances were that they would be seen. And, for Eustace's sake at least, she would cause no more unnecessary scandal. Let Keith come to Sussex, be chaperoned by her parents' presence, and they would settle everything quickly enough.

The most important thing would be settled, so far as she was concerned, when she first watched Keith's face, regarding hers. So great was her urgency to have that moment arrive and then be past, that her patience wore extremely thin in the last hours of Gilbert's stay.

She and Denise were no more than turning from the dock-side when that patience snapped. She said: "I want Keith to come here, Denise. You must help me about it."

A broken right leg and arm, lacerations of the head and neck, and possible internal injuries (they turned out to be slight) give a man time off from engagements to think.

The thoughts of Keith Sheldie, Jr., in the time after his physicians ceased giving him sedatives, were curiously regretful: First, that he had not been sufficiently convincing with a girl named Denise Rendale in an era that seemed about equidistant (the distance enormous) in time and in reality. Second, that if an encounter on an unfamiliar road, with a vehicle the driver of which he'd never, consciously seen, was to fling him out of his normal life, he would rather have been traveling that road for some more vital reason than to bring home from an innocent and so stupidly compromising week-end, a lady he did not much love. His thoughts clarified as the sharp agonies of pain subsided. But clearest, from the beginning, was that knowledge that he did not much love Felicia. . . .

The transition from the hospital to his father's house always remained a blur in his mind. Thereafter he improved steadily, until there came an evening when he felt comfortable, clear-headed, and conscience-stricken about not having communicated with Felicia.

That was a day or two after they'd shown him a mirror when they shaved him—and because he was masculine, they were much less reassuring than with Felicia. "'Fraid you've kind of spoiled your handsome face, Mr. Sheldie," his day nurse said.

He had a scar on one cheek that lifted his mouth in a somewhat twisted smile. He had another scar running from the corner of his eyebrow across his forehead to his hair line.

"At that," the nurse said, "you're better looking than some."

will the Pennsylvania Legislature raise the price of food?

If our State of Pennsylvania were different from the rest of the nation; if need and want and hunger were unknown within our borders, then legislation to raise the cost of living would not be so tragic. It might possibly be justified upon social, if not upon economic grounds. It might be excused as one of those expediencies which voters have always accepted as a part of democratic government, and to which legislators often resort to meet the ever-increasing cost of state government.

But Pennsylvania is not different from the rest of the Nation. One-third, at least, of its people know the pangs of hunger, the bite of Winter on poorly clad bodies, the barrenness of poor homes.

Is it wise---or if it is wise, is it our right to consider laws which will deny large numbers of discouraged citizens even one less loaf of bread?

Yet House Bill Number 228 would go much further than that. Although it is known as the "Store Tax Act," it is actually a tax which would be borne heavily by the people of Pennsylvania who do not now have enough food. It would increase the retail price of food.

Perhaps you are one of those fortunate people who could afford to pay larger food bills. There are many who could not.

In future articles, we shall describe in detail the Store Tax Act, House Bill Number 228. For the present it is sufficient to say that it is a huge tax on chain stores, the stores which have done more than all other institutions combined to bring wholesome food within reach of the average family.

"Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors."

If this bill is passed we would have no choice but to add the tax to the price of food.

We are, of course, worried about the future of our own business and the welfare of the 62,037 Pennsylvanians who work in chain stores. Passage of the Store Tax Act would mean the closing of hundreds of our stores.

Your legislators are governed entirely by your desires. They do not know how you feel about this concealed sales tax on food. A letter or a post-card to your Representative and Senator would let them know your wishes.

FASHION PARADE

By Orry-Kelly

(Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing for International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Time marches on . . . but approximately every seven years it brings back the same fashions . . . done a little differently, perhaps . . . but still the same general idea.

In doing the gowns for Kay Francis' new picture, "One Hour of Romance," we were mildly suprised to find that the gowns she would wear in the 1915 sequences of the picture had many things in common with the 1937 modes. A little over three cycles transpire in the interim.

For one thing, slashed skirts were in vogue during the pre-war era and, of course, are the last gasp now. Then, as now, they were the forerunner of short skirts for evening as well as for daytime wear.

Braid and tucking were two popular details in 1915. The same trimming is so good today that one of the dresses we did for Dorothy Peterson to wear in the early sequence would please the modern lady of fashion quite completely. It is of heavy grey chiffon with a stitched bib made with very fine tucks and deep cuffs with the same motif. Even the skirt would pass muster today as it is very full with several gores set in.

The hobble skirts of 1915 are being done by some of the Paris designers today. The wide-brimmed hats and the tunics which Miss Francis wears are also in today's fashion line-up, but are less ornate now than they were in those by-gone days.

The later sequences of the picture take place in 1930 . . . which is just one cycle off from 1937. A mental flashback reveals that the modes are almost identical. We did a suit for Jane Bryan consisting of a straight brown wool skirt, a nubby tweed mess jacket and a boxy reefer of the same tweed. If Jane walked off the set into the Brown Derby in that costume no one would comment disparagingly.

People frequently ask me how designers in Hollywood, New York and Paris can all be doing approximately the same thing at the same time while they are all working independently. The seven-year cycle is probably the best explanation. We all know at the present time there is a feeling for feminity and simplicity, so when we take our fashions from another era we adapt them to that general current trend.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

TURKEYS and hams are attractively priced for Easter dinner tables. Veal too, is moderate but beef and lamb are high. All poultry continues reasonable though fowl is a little high compared to frying and roasting chickens. Egg retails are very close to the wholesale level but are several cents higher than last year. Butter prices have continued to rise.

All vegetables except green and lima beans and green peas are moderate in price. Even asparagus prices have dropped to a level where it can be served.

BRISTOL HIGH RETAINS POSSESSION OF DISTRICT ONE, P. I. A. A. "GYM" CUP; CAPTURE MEET WITH 729 SCORE

(By Louis Tomlinson)

WEST CHESTER, Mar. 22—Coach Bill Dougherty's gymnastic team was given a severe struggle by Upper Darby for the District 1 gymnastic title in the P. I. A. A. meet held here Saturday, but the local lads came out on top by the margin of 155 points with a final total of 729 points. Upper Darby, who came second, piled up a total of 574 points. West Chester, failing to enter any opposition on the high bar, placed third with 316 points. They also failed to take a first place. Avon Grove, with only one entrant, came in last with 29 points scored by Lendene on the parallels.

Bristol placed on every piece except the rings, but took all three places on the horizontal bar to make up the ground lost by the flying rings mishap. In only one other piece, the parallel bars, were the local lads lax, by not taking more than one place. On this piece Dick Doyle took a second, one point short of tying the winner, Captain of Upper Darby.

Dick Doyle was the leading scorer for the Cardinals and, in fact, in the whole meet, but still he failed to take a first place. On both of his pieces he placed second—just one point behind the winner. On the high bar he scored a 54, but his teammate, Jack Vandenberg, went him one better by tallying a 55 score. Then on the parallels, Doyle rolled up a 57 score, but again he was nosed out by a single point, but it was Shannon of Upper Darby, this time. Doyle scored 111 total points which was the only one over a hundred except for Garrett, of West Chester, who scored 104 points.

Other individual achievements made by Bristol gymnasts were by B. Gallagher who tallied the highest individual score for one piece when he scored a 60 for his exercise on the mats. The next single high was a 58 scored by both Clark and Shannon of Upper Darby. However, Carmen Mignoni's 35 out of a possible 45 was the highest score made out of a possible total. Seventy-five points was the supreme total on all four pieces, this required two exercises where there was only one, an optional, on the Indian clubs. George Brown tied for second place with Brooks of Upper Darby on the mats, but the latter was conceded second place due to a higher optional score. Nevertheless, the "Peanut" took two places when he scored a third on the horse. He was the only other Cardinal to win two places. Vandenberg's 50th on the rings pulled him out of the class, and Carm Mignoni's fourth on the horse and DeLong's low score on the mats.

Outstanding individuals of both teams were, of course, Garrett of West Chester, one of the three double placers, who came home with a second on the rings, and a third on the parallels. He was also one of the two to score more than 100 points—Dick Doyle was the other. Siddall of Upper Darby, who captured the flying rings event, came in fourth on the horizontal bar to miss a double. Saylor's third on the rings and fourth on the mats kept him out of this class also.

The Indian club swinging was the first event, and right off the bat, Carmen Mignoni took first and Harry Hinman placed second to get the locals off on the right foot. Mignoni scored a 35 out of a possible 45 while Thuman scored a 29. Simon of West Chester took third with a 26 score. There was only one exercise in this event—that is optional.

After the high bar event, which was next, it looked as though the meet was going to be a repetition of last year with Bristol winning in a breeze, for they took all three places on this piece. John Vandenberg rank up the highest score, with a 55, but was closely pressed by Doyle, who came in with a 54. George DeLong took third place with a 45 score. This gave the Cardinals five out of the first six places and a total score of 230 to 26 for West Chester, and 144 for Upper Darby.

Even in the third event, the side horse, Bristol more than held their own by taking two out of three places on this piece. Nason Clark, of Upper Darby, came out on top with a 38 score, while Bill Mignoni placed second with a 34 total. George "Peanut" Brown took third place, counting 31 points. After this piece was over, Bristol led 368 to 278 for Upper Darby and 60 for West Chester.

Bristol's lead was increased following the parallel bar event despite the fact that they only placed one in the first three. This was Dick Doyle who finished second with a final tabulation of 57 points, one point south of first place won by Shannon of Upper Darby, who had a 58 score. Garrett took third place with a close score of 55, showing the closeness of this event. Phil Carnvale and Harry Seibold placed fourth and fifth respectively, in this event, with a 43 and 42 score respectively. Bristol now led with 510 to 364 for Upper Darby and 151 for West Chester, and 29 for Avon Grove.

This lead was reduced, however, due to the winners' failure to score a place in this event. In fact, their closest was John Vandenberg's fifth place. This was attributed to a couple of bad breaks when Danny Pieo and Gus Carnvale, the other two Bristol entrants, fell off in the midst of their [illegible] of Upper Darby [illegible] the event with a 53 score—the lowest score made by a winner. Second place was taken by Garrett of West Chester, and Saylor of the same school took third. These two counted [illegible] and 46, respectively. After doing one optional counting, 22 and 21, respectively, Pieo and Carnvale failed to score a point on their optional. However, Bristol maintained a large lead of 130 points over Upper Darby, Bristol now tallied 594 to 462 for Upper Darby, 277 for West Chester and 29 for Avon Grove. This virtually assured Bristol of winning the meet as Upper Darby would have to do a lot of scoring while Bristol was failing miserably—but it was not in the cards for the Cardinals to do this.

Instead of losing their lead, the ultimate winners increased it by taking first and third places. Bill Gallagher came through with his usual fine performance to easily take first place in this event by chalking up 60 points. There was a tie for second place between Brown of Bristol and Brooks of Upper Darby, but the latter was given the second place honor because of a higher optional exercise score. Both had scores of 43. Thus the final score found Bristol on top with the tabulations reading as follows: Bristol, 729; Upper Darby, 574; West Chester, 316; Avon Grove, 29.

There were two exercises to each piece, except the Indian club drill in which an optional exercise was the only one scored. Each exercise was [illegible] by three judges with 15 points [illegible] maximum for the optional exercise and 10 for the required, making [illegible] possible points on each piece [illegible] each for every judge, or 75 for the [illegible].

By winning, Bristol retained possession of the District I, P. I. A. A., gymnastic cup, signifying their title as District 1 Champions, 1937. This was the second leg on the cup won by Bristol, which necessitates their only winning once more to retain permanent possession of it.

Those who placed in either of the first three positions in the district meet are eligible to enter the regional meet held here next week for the championship of Eastern Pennsylvania.

Speaker Tells Graduates Farming Does Pay

"Many of the farmers in trouble are those that have failed for one reason or another to make use of what progress has been available.

"One of the unemployment problems that faces us today is the overcrowding of professions and white collar jobs. A better spread can be attained by attracting more of our young men to pioneer activities.

"Since 1920 the United States has been more or less troubled by the 'farm problem,' mainly due to market conditions and the indebtedness of unsuccessful farmers, but farming has not been the only industry compelled to readjust itself to the economic changes following the World War.

"If the socialization of agriculture can be accomplished it may materially help to solve fundamental maladjustments where they exist. The problems of production, surplus and distribution are many; they require careful study by thinkers and political economists. Farmers should be encouraged to reestablish themselves upon a better paying basis in order to live comfortably and aid the general welfare of a nation dependent upon their prosperity."

President Allman said that farmers today are taxing a more optimistic view of the present and future prospects. Many, he said, are beginning to realize that instead of continually drawing fertility out of the soil they should restore it.

"An estimated crop income of $10,000,000,000 is forecast for 1937," President Allman declared. "This is more than three times that of 1932. According to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, farmers of 1936 after paying for goods used in production, wages, interest, taxes or rent, and allowing for depreciation, had greater purchasing power than in 1929.

"Practical farmers who understand the science of agriculture, competent to check diseases of cattle and the spread of insects, those who can manage efficiently, have many advantages over their untrained neighbors."

President Allman declared that the science of chemurgics is a new challenge to agriculture and industry, for it symbolizes the use of old and discarded things in a new way. The broadening of its discoveries will provide work on abandoned farms and more jobs for willing hands in shop, factory and building construction, he said.

"By-products of farming formerly wasted are now utilized to manufacture cellophane, rayon, power alcohol, paper, vegetable fibres, oils from soy beans, plastico, tanning materials, cotton for road construction and many other useful products," President Allman continued.

"Effective education is the major essential for any undertaking," the school president declared. "It takes more than a hoe and a pair of overalls to make a successful farmer. Farming as a vocation offers opportunity for success the same as many other vocations."

Graduates were presented with diplomas by President Allman and the prize awards were announced by the Dean of the school, Cletus L. Goodling. The valedictory address was delivered by Woodrow Malloch, of Philadelphia, and the salutatory address by Aaron Levine, of Philadelphia. An old custom, the presentation of the hoe by the president of the graduating class was carried out Sunday when Seymour Blatt, of Jersey City, N. J., presented the hoe to the incoming president.
